

As those who suffer from chronic, long-term pain can attest, it is not an easy journey. However, when there is a patient, capable, kind physician and staff who are dedicated not only in providing the necessary procedures, but in addition, are more than willing to listen, access the root problem from which the pain stems, and discuss the best treatment, then somehow the burden of pain and resulting fatigue is more bearable.

Doctor Steven Mortazavi and his excellent staff go above and beyond requirements to remediate the pain. The interactions are extremely positive, professional, and friendly.
